SPRING JAZZ SERIES 2019

April 12th @ 8pm

Performing alongside the Joey Berkley Band, the Westchester Center for Jazz welcomes our next featured artist...

Marshall McDonald

Whether you've heard him playing Lead Alto during his eighteen year tenure with The Count Basie Orchestra, playing Tenor Saxophone with Paquito D'Rivera or Baritone Saxophone with Abdullah Ibrahim or clarinet solos with The Duke Ellington Orchestra... Marshall keeps the swing and dance that he learned in his hometown of Pittsburgh, at the heartbeat of his playing.

A seasoned reedman, having played over 30 years in the New York City area, he is known for his ability to play all of the saxophones and woodwinds, with a unique approach to each one. Marshall's impeccable talent will now grace the Westchester Center for Jazz stage along with our fantastic director Joey Berkley.

Tickets: $25.00
